Langley Porter Psychiatric Institute is offering a specialized clinic for persons who have suffered a traumatic event in their lives or who suffer from anxiety.

Many patients who have experienced severe psychological trauma may be helped by therapy, according to Geri Krasner, LPPI clinical social worker.

Therapy is offered at LPPI's Stress and Anxiety Clinic, a specialized unit of LPPI. Patients are given a comprehensive evaluation, and appropriate treatment is suggested either at LPPI or elsewhere if other services seem more suitable, says Krasner.

For further information contact Krasner at x77-513.

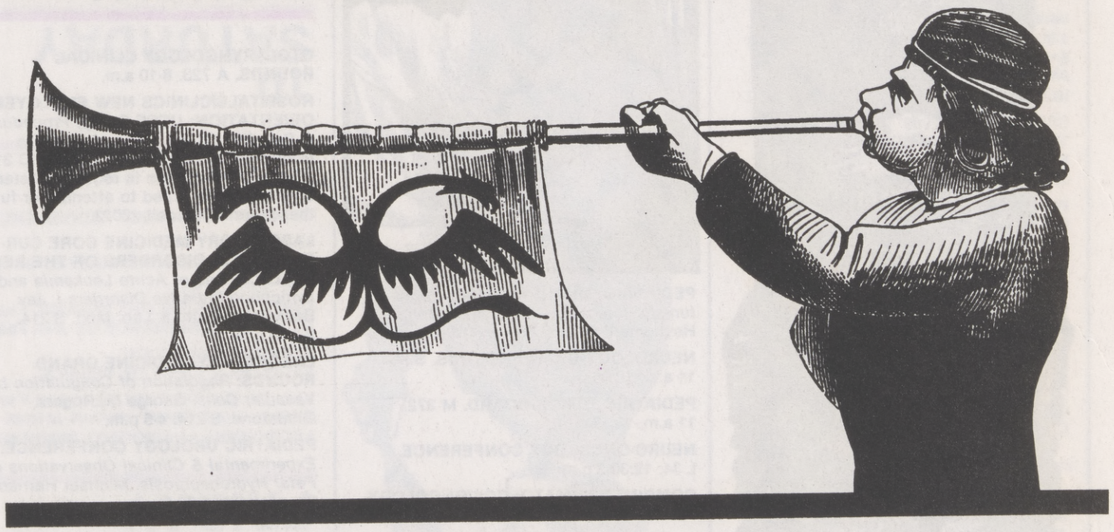
DEADLINE

Deadline for the next issue of Today & Tomorrow, which will cover the time period Sept. 17-30, will be Tuesday, Sept. 6, 11 a.m. Please send your copy to Allen Balderson, News & Public Information Services, 532 Parnassus Ave., Rm. 300, x1541 or x2557.

Two informational meetings for the campus community and neighborhood will be held on Thursday, September 29. The meetings will continue discussion of implementation of the campus's Long Range Development Plan, including a proposed Vision Center in one of the westside research modules. Also to be discussed will be negotiations with the SF Unified School District on the use of the Poly High School site for moderate-cost housing for UCSF students, staff and young faculty.

The September meetings will be held at noon in Room 302 HSW and in the evening at 7:30 p.m. in the Laguna Honda School community conference room, 1350 Seventh Avenue.

The meetings are part of a series of twin sessions to keep the campus and community informed about current UCSF planning developments, according to Tom Gwyn, assistant chancellor, Public Programs.



The new Joseph M. Long Hospital and modernized Herbert C. Moffitt Hospital will be dedicated on Saturday, October 1. Ceremonies will begin at 11 a.m. in the plaza northeast of the new emergency entrance. Speakers include Speaker of the Assembly Willie Brown, UC Board of Regents chair Yori Wada, and Chancellor Emeritus Francis A. Sooy. The program will be informal and festive. The campus community is urged to come and show off their workplace to their families.

There will be a free picnic lunch from noon to 2 p.m. in Saunders Court.

Special guided tours from noon to 3 p.m. will give campus employees, their families and the community a preview of Long Hospital's new features, many not normally accessible, including radiation oncology, physical therapy, a patient care area, an operating and scrub room, EKG and echocardiography, clinical laboratories, pharmacy, respiratory therapy, materiel service, NMR and an ambulance.

Informational and photo exhibits will be set up in the second-floor cafeteria of Moffitt Hospital and the lobby of Medical Sciences. Selected TV news spots featuring UCSF also will be shown. Free refreshments will be available at a reception area also located on the second floor of Moffitt.

Staff employees are presently working on a celebration party to occur the previous afternoon in the Millberry Union gym from 3:30 to 7:30 p.m. The entire campus community is invited to attend and partake of the free food, libations, music and dancing.

The cost of this special dedication has been underwritten by private donations.

HEALTH PROMOTION

NEWS BRIEFS

Melvin Grumbach, MD, and Margretta M. Styles, EdD, have been elected to the prestigious Institute of Medicine of the National Academy of Sciences. They are among 36 new members from throughout the country elected at this time.

Election to the Institute is both a working assignment and an honor in recognition of major contributions to health and medicine, or such related fields as the social and behavioral sciences, law, administration and engineering.

Grumbach first came to UCSF in 1966 as professor and chair of the Department of Pediatrics. Under his leadership, it has become recognized as one of the nation's leading departments in its field. Since 1966, he also has served as a consultant at Letterman General and Children's hospitals in San Francisco and the US Naval Hospital in Oakland.

Styles has been professor and dean of the top-ranking School of Nursing since 1977. She was named to a joint appointment as associate director of Nursing Services in 1980. Recognized as a national leader in nursing education, Styles has worked to establish networks of communication among nurse educators throughout the country and has authored numerous professional articles on nursing leadership.

The Community Health Education Program (CHEP) is looking for faculty, students and staff who would like to take part in educating senior citizens on health matters and at the same time provide a University-sponsored public service.

CHEP provides much needed health promotion discussions at over 40 senior-nutrition sites throughout the city. The discussions usually last one hour and provide a vehicle for meaningful dialogue between the seniors and the educator. Transportation for the educators is provided by the Office of Public Service Programs.

There are some 120 volunteers, presently engaged in discussing a wide variety of topics for the program, who need help and relief. If you would like to become a volunteer, contact David Bracker at x3206.

A festive reunion and "celebration of life" picnic for children who were patients in the Intensive Care Nursery (ICN) or Pre-term Labor Program at UCSF and their parents will be held on Saturday, September 10, in Saunders Court from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Sponsored by the UCSF Parent Support Group, this is the fourth annual reunion picnic, with some 500 children and their parents expected to attend, in addition to UCSF physicians and staff members from the ICN and Pre-term Program.

The picnic will include puppeteers and clowns, balloons and hot dogs, face painting and games.

A University-wide Task Force on Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome (AIDS) has been appointed.

Committee members are: Merle A. Sande, MD, professor and vice chair, Medicine, UCSF, (chair); J. Michael Bishop, Microbiology and Hooper Foundation, UCSF; Abraham I. Braude, MD, Medicine, UC-San Diego; Robert D. Cardiff, MD, Medical Pathology, UC-Davis; Thomas C. Cesario, MD, Infectious Diseases, UC-Irvine; Lawrence L. Friedman, MD, Medicine, UCLA; William C. Reeves, MD, Epidemiology, UC-Berkeley; and Jack C. Stevens, DVM, PhD, Microbiology and Immunology, UCLA.

The task force will develop guidelines for 1983-84 State AIDS research funds, develop plans for future competitive research grant cycles, consider and advise the President on coordination of AIDS research within the University, and report to the Legislature on the outcome of those research projects funded by the State.

The UCSF Archives has received a collection of papers and memorabilia of Guy S. Millberry, dean of the School of Dentistry from 1914 to 1939, from his daughter, Kathryn Millberry Newell. Millberry, for whom the student union is named, was instrumental in making the Union possible. Included in the gift are personal and business correspondence, notebooks, including four journals kept by Millberry on a European trip in 1926, several photographs, and dental instruments and glassware, some dating back to the 19th century.

The Center for Deafness has received a five-year $2 million grant from the National Institute for Handicapped Research. The grant, $400,000 per year, has been awarded to continue the work of the Center to enhance the psychosocial and linguistic development of the deaf.

A part of the Department of Psychiatry, the Center is one of the few in the country with experts both in mental health and deafness and is the only federally designated research and training center with the combined mission of dealing with the mental health needs of the deaf as well as with deafness.

It provides clinical services including sign language classes, support for parents of deaf children and psychological therapy for the deaf. A broader program recently was implemented, and several new research and training activities include a descriptive study of social and language development in infancy and early childhood, an examination of infant intervention programs in the Bay Area, educational programs to increase the social understanding of deaf children and adolescents and a study of language development (both American sign language and English) among deaf children.

Students in the four professional schools who have no prior computer knowledge can enroll in a new two-unit course offered by the Graduate Program in Medical Information Science during the fall quarter.

The course is a survey of microcomputer systems, providing basic conceptual models of computing in a health care environment. It will introduce computer terminology, hardware and software tools, operating systems and programming languages, and will give an overview of word processing, database management and electronic spreadsheets. There will be hands-on training on several microcomputer systems.

Enrollment is limited; auditors are welcome. For further information contact Tina Walters, x2951.

The UCSF Puppet Therapy Program has received a $25,000 grant from the Louis B. Mayer Foundation of Beverly Hills.

Organized in 1969, the program uses trained puppeteers to demonstrate to young surgery patients the treatment and medical care they will receive in the Moffitt/Long Hospitals. The children also use their animal "puppet friends" to express their own feelings and emotions about hospitalization.

Last year some 500 children participated in the program, which is sponsored by Nursing Services and is part of the Child Life Services.
